Mr Broadley, the newly elected President, said: "I accept this as a great honour and I am aware of the challenges that I shall have to meet. I am particularly pleased with the presence of such distinguished professionals in the Board, from a very wide constituency of different EU countries. This is a good sign, which makes me confident for the future of Clecat, despite the unavoidable difficulties that the present crisis has created in our sector." Jean-Claude Delen, the outgoing Chairman, then vigorously shook his hand and they embraced concluding a touching ceremony where the Clecat baton was passed from Belgium to the UK.
